ROLE OF CRC

The role of the Certified Recovery Coach (CRC) reflects a collaborative and strengths-based approach, with the primary goal being to assist individuals in achieving sustained recovery from addiction and/or mental health issues. CRCs will not be clinicians; they will serve in a supportive role within the community and/or within a treatment setting. Services provided by the CRC become a permanent critical component of the continuum of care services that will substantially improve an individual's ability to sustain recovery/wellness.

The primary function of the CRC is to help individuals gain access to needed resources in the community by assisting them in overcoming barriers and helping them bridge gaps between their needs and available resources. This means the CRC will serve as case managers, helping individuals connect with needed services, including addiction and mental health treatment services, and assisting them in acquiring resources that will facilitate their recovery (e.g., acquiring childcare services, stable housing, and employment support). Each CRC will serve individuals in the recovery process by supporting them in accessing community-based resources, implementing recovery/wellness plans, navigating state and local systems (including addiction and mental health treatment systems) and providing recovery support services. The CRC will coach service recipients to help them develop a strong foundation in recovery (e.g. establishing support systems, self-care, independence/self-sufficiency, healthy coping skills and other skills) that support long-term recovery.
